Add Zorbix to your disaster recovery kit because it is easy to use, takes up minimal space and can be reused many times. Use Zorbix in place of paper towels or blotter, shortening drying time to a few hours rather than weeks. Zorbix requires much less handling to dry items.

Relaxing brittle paper is easy by using Zorbix as a humidity blanket. Wet Zorbix with water, place on surface of document (or protect with Reemay) and allow humidity to relax brittle fibers. Once document is humidified, dry sheets of Zorbix can be used to speed drying document under pressure to insure a flat item.

Superior care for water-damaged books and documents

Drying books with Zorbix is fast and easy, requiring no special training. The process is similar to that employed with blotter paper.

1. Interleave wet book with Zorbix, one sheet every 20 pages.
2. Press for one hour. Zorbix will have removed 50% of the water.
3. Remove damp Zorbix sheets. Interleave with fresh sheets of Zorbix at the halfway point from the last interleaving.
4. Press for one hour. The book will be about 70% dry.
5. Repeat steps 3 and 4. This will render the book about 90% dry.
6. For book to dry flat, press lightly overnight.
7. To reuse Zorbix: Dry and press flat. Return to airtight bag for storage.
